Marc Brandenburg, Untitled (detail) (from the "Hirnsturm" series), 2011

Marc Brandenburg (b. 1965) is a multimedia artist who was born in Berlin, where he currently lives and works. Interested in scenes of power and excess, the artist is known for his graphite-on-paper drawings that adopt the look of photographic negatives. Brandenburg makes and appropriates original and found photographs in his drawings to depict crowds at soccer games and political protests, as well as celebrities and consumer objects borrowed from the mass media.

In this most recent transformation of the Goethe-Institut Wyoming Building, Marc Brandenburg: Version builds off of the artist's ongoing "Hirnsturm" series with a site-specific installation. Visitors will encounter screenprinted images in an enclosed space illuminated by black light. Referencing the aesthetics of cinema, music and dance club culture, Version emphasizes the tension between the precision of photo-realist figuration and the abstraction of images from their original context and form. The exhibition will be on view at the Goethe-Institut Wyoming Building May 6 to June 4, 2011 with an opening reception at the Wyoming Building on May 6, 6–8 pm.

OFF/SITE is a collaboration between The Studio Museum in Harlem and the Goethe-Institut New York. Both institutions are committed to examining contemporary ideas from a culturally specific, global context—black culture and culture from Germany, respectively. OFF/SITE features two site-specific artist projects and a series of public programs at the Wyoming Building, the Goethe-Institut's programming space in the East Village.
